Old Business:

- Tuesday mornings are going well. Patrons have already begun to use the designated time we are now open
- The author visit had to be moved to the Public Safety Building because the author needed equipment for her presentation that we did not have.

New Business:

- Jill and Helen participated in the WES Open House. It was the library's scheduled bookgroup at that time.
- Request from Rev. Ken Langer the Unitarian Universalist minister based in Barre, VT, who would like to give a talk at the library that is built around his new memoir, Religion Without God: Notes from an Atheist Minister.
- Sadly it is already so cold that we have had to turn the heat on at the library. Patrons were complaining.
